Keeping it in Balance. This is a time when everything in our lives overlaps and we do our best to balance it all. Transitioning our livestock from their winter homes to summer grazing involves a lot of construction. We are still in our start-up phase, and so fences, water lines, shelters--oh, and that flipped egg mobile--are all vying for our attention. Throw in raising two kiddos, pruning, getting ready for markets, planting the home garden, and Tamara's return to substitute teaching. The bags under our eyes are big!

We keep it together by making time for simple things - family meals, playing with the kids, and sleep. When the sun goes down we do too!

Another BIG motivator to keep on the go is you -- our community farm family. It is very uplifting for me to interact with you all at the summer markets! I enjoy getting to know you, and especially like hearing how you are using our farm fresh products. Our Pork & Chicken Shares are filling up and it wonderful to see that so many people want local, pasture-raised proteins.
